

McQuinn

792359
M62H45

Holiday Toys.

HOLIDAY JOYS.

By
Anne C. McQueen

New York
H. W. & Co.
1887

PS 2359
.M62 H65

Copyright 1887
Hard & Parsons,
New York.

Now the Christmas-tide is come,

Christmas holidays are here,

Dearest to the school-boy heart

Of all the days throughout the year

School is over for a spell,

Books are lain aside with care,

Through the house glad voices ring,

Shouts and laughter fill the air.

IN and out they run with glee.

Plought to do but romp and play.

Tumble in the melting snow,

Jump and frolic all the day,

Shape the snow in giant forms.

Build huge forts of towering might.

Storm and take the opposing foe,

Roll in a snow-ball fight.

COMES a youngster down the road.

On shining snow-shoes treading light.

Quick the others flock around.

Eager for the wondrous sight.

Clothed in flannel, warm and snug.

Bordered bright with colored bands.

Gaily tipped with sash and ball.

Proud, the little hero stands.

BOYISH faces gleam with mirth.

Cheeks with ruddy color glow,

Warm the jackets buttoned tight,

Warm, the boyish hearts below.

Christmas-time is all for fun,

Christmas comes but once a year.

Wished for, longed for, when afar,

Hailed with wild delight when near.

ANNIE C. McQUEEN

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

0 016 165 308 1